Pedro Serrazina

Pedro Serrazina is an award-winning director, senior lecturer and animation researcher. His first short, "Tale about the Cat and the Moon", was premiered internationally at the Cannes Film Festival, won multiple awards and is still regularly screened in retrospectives and festivals.

His work ranges from short films and international site-specific installations, to music videos, workshops and academic projects. Serrazina is interested in the interconnections between architecture, public space, documentary and animation, and his practice-based PhD was dedicated to the use of animated space as a tool to reflect on social space. His work has been exhibited internationally (Tunisia, São Paulo, USA, Montreal, Lisbon). A member of the Society for Animation Studies and Ecstatic Truth, Serrazina is currently preparing his next short documentary film, "What remains of us".
